♦ Dr. Vinita HENRY, OD 1985, received the Achievement Award in recognition of outstanding long-term contributions to the optometric profession from the American Optometric Association Contact Lens and Cornea Section Council in June. She was extremely honored to be recognized by her peers nationally. "I believe in hard work, but you don't always realize that others might be paying attention or are affected by your work," she says. "It is very nice to know that your work has been beneficial to others in your field." Henry also received the Lifetime Achievement Award from the Association of Optometric Contact Lens Educators this year and works as clinical professor and associate dean of clinical operations in UMSL's College of Optometry. "Working with students is extremely rewarding. To watch their growth and be a small part of watching them reach their potential is very special. I have had a small role in the education of optometry students for over 35 years, and I get to help many more patients than I would have as a private practitioner because I have played a role in the education of our alumni who practice optometry all over the United States."

Renee Hardin-Tammons, BSBA 1986, was sworn in as a judge on the Missouri Court of Appeals.

Tim Jordan, BSBA 1986, began a new position as director of delivery excellence at Trace3.

1990s

Cathy Arshadi, BSBA 1992, was honored at the Salute to Business Achievement Awards.

Kirk KASICKI, MACC 2004, was promoted to senior vice president, corporate tax at CSI Leasing Inc. Kasicki worked full-time while studying for his master's degree at UMSL – his daughter was born three weeks before finals during his last semester – and he landed his first job out of college with CSI in the income tax department. He considers himself lucky to have a boss who not only taught him what he needed to learn but also supported him when he took a position at Enterprise Rent-A-Car to further expand his horizons. Kasicki returned to CSI as manager of the income tax department in 2010 and has been leading the department since. He says he was quite surprised and honored to be named among those being promoted this year at CSI's annual company-wide meeting. "It reminded me of the faith that CSI puts into its people and is just one of the reasons that CSI has so many long-tenured employees," he says. "During my time at CSI, I've learned about taxing regimes around the world and also had the opportunity to travel to four continents, getting to know and advising our local teams on tax issues. I've worked on a vast array of projects from structuring opportunities for our customers to due diligence on acquisitions as CSI has continued to grow, especially internationally."

Vince DeBlasi, BA 2001, was honored as West Newsmagazine's Educator of the Year.

Stephanie Gifford, BSED 2001, began a new position as an enablement analyst at Ameren.

Elijah Davis, BSED 2004, began a new position as an IPS supervisor at Preferred Family Healthcare.

Kelly Griffon, MSW 2004, began a new position as a business development specialist at MapHabit.

Angela Smith, MEd 2004, began a new position as a disciplinary education program coordinator at Valley View Public School.

Sima Eghbal, MBA 2005, began a new position as manager of strategic accounts at Cedric Millar Integrated Solutions.

ONE OF US

Toni Hayes, BS ‘00

HOMETOWN: St. Louis

CURRENT LOCATION: Pepperell, Massachusetts

OCCUPATION: Principal Scientist of Toxicology for Preclinical Drug Development at Apellis Pharmaceuticals

Toni Hayes is fulfilling her dream of making a difference through her passion for science. After serving in the United States Marine Corps, Hayes knew she wanted to obtain a four-year degree and ultimately chose UMSL because it was a flexible option that would allow her to continue working while pursuing her interest in biology. She had her sights set on a career working in the sciences, either in academia or industry, and has certainly accomplished that. After completing her bachelor’s at UMSL in 2000, Hayes went on to earn her master’s in toxicology from Northeastern University in 2006. She is a 2015 diplomate of the American Board of Toxicology and a 2022 diplomate of the Safety Pharmacology Society and currently works at Apellis Pharmaceuticals as principal scientist of toxicology for preclinical drug development. She looks back fondly on her time at UMSL, giving a lot of credit to former professor Godfrey Bourne. “He was so inspiring and motivating,” she says. “He really encouraged me when I didn’t think I would make it through the program, and I’m forever grateful for that.”

WHAT DO YOU KNOW NOW THAT YOU WISH YOU KNEW WHEN YOU WERE A STUDENT?

As an undergraduate, I always approached college and my time at UMSL as an acute exercise because I juggled working full-time with academics, and time was always a challenge. I think as a student, especially a nontraditional student, I always felt like I had to hurry ... “catch up!” Now I know that I was exactly where I needed to be to get where I am now. I didn’t need to catch up to anyone or anything. I’d love to go back in time and enjoy the process, take my time, get better grades, make more friends, join more clubs.

WHAT DO YOU LOVE MOST ABOUT YOUR JOB?

I love that the work I do every day has the ultimate goal of bringing therapies to people suffering from rare diseases.

HOW DID YOUR TIME AT UMSL PREPARE YOU TO BE A LEADER?

The degree I earned from UMSL was my pivot toward the kind of work that I was really passionate about doing. It’s enabled me to be a leader within the STEM community and a voice for minorities and women who are underrepresented in the sciences in general.

2010s

Angela PERKINS, MEd

2010, was recently promoted to associate director of talent acquisition at Ginkgo Bioworks, a platform company in the biotechnology space focused on synthetic biology. Perkins learned as an undergraduate resident assistant just how fulfilling it was to help students on their journey and turned that passion into a career helping students develop the competencies that employers are looking for. To advance in her career, she took advantage of the flexibility UMSL provides for working professionals juggling their home life, their career and their academic goals to pursue her master’s. After earning her degree, she was promoted and has continued to advance in her career in university relations within corporate talent acquisition.

WHERE IN THE WORLD?

LONDON

with Veronique DiVoire, MBA 1994

RIGINALLY from Lyon, France (a twin city to St. Louis!), Veronique met her husband and fellow UMSL alum, Subhojit Chakraborty, MS 1995, while earning her MBA. Together, the couple moved to London, where Veronique now works as the head of human resources for Freedom from Torture, a not-for-profit human rights organization.

WHAT BROUGHT YOU TO LONDON?

My husband getting a job in London. He is from India and graduated from UMSL too, earning a master's degree in physiological optics and vision science.

BIGGEST SURPRISE ABOUT LIVING AND WORKING IN ENGLAND?

How expensive London is, in particular accommodations! I was also surprised when looking for jobs. England has its own human resources professional body, the CIPD, and most human resources jobs require a master's or bachelor's accredited by the CIPD. I fought the job market hard when looking for my first job in England to secure a role that wouldn't require me to do another master's in England. I achieved that and moving roles after that was a lot easier as I had professional experience in England.

WHERE TO STAY

In the Docklands by the Thames River. It is a brand-new area of London that has developed in the past 25 years.

MUST-SEE ATTRACTIONS

The London Eye, Trafalgar Square, Big Ben, Buckingham Palace and Westminster Abbey. Also, the wonderful museums, such as the British Museum and Science Museum, to name a few.

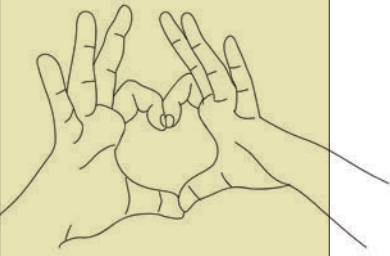

HIDDEN GEMS

Greenwich and its meridian. It's not as popular as the other attractions and often forgotten by tourists, but it sits in a beautiful park by the Thames outside of the intense central London life.

FOOD TO TRY

Fish and chips or bangers and mash, of course!

favorite spot on campus as a student

MY FAVORITE PLACE AT UMSL WAS A MULTIPURPOSE QUIET ROOM IN THE FRONT OF THE MILLENNIUM STUDENT CENTER. I LOVED TO SIT NEAR THE FIREPLACE AND STUDY THERE. THERE WAS NOTHING LIKE SIPPING A PUMPKIN SPICE FRAPPÉ AND STUDYING NEAR THE FIREPLACE ON A FALL DAY!

Ketisha Harris Anderson, BA 2014
