Sports and Sporting Events            The enrollment caps and attendance policies in all 3100 sections strictly enforced.            We will critically assess, through the studies of theoretical and analytical texts, how sports and sporting events function as a public arena to effect social, cultural, and historical change in America. Students will apply critical thinking and discursive analysis to understand the impact of sports and to gain perspectives on how sports may reflect social values and potentially bring about social change. This is a writing-focused class with a research component.            Same as GS 3350 006.            Additional Fee - Arts and Sciences Supplemental Fee applies. 				Case Competition Topic: Case Competition This course will prepare teams of students to analyze, synthesize and present a proposed multifaceted solution to a business problem. Each year successful students may be invited to compete in domestic or international case competitions, such as the UMSL International Business Case Competition. Through the use of cross-disciplinary cases (Management, Finance, International Business, Accounting, Information Systems, Marketing), students working in cross functional teams will increase their ability to successfully function in team roles, analytical abilities, improve their writing and presentation skills and learn to think more strategically and analytically. Student teams will compete as they solve several cases throughout the semester. Employer surveys indicate that while students have topical course knowledge, experience in applying that knowledge to concrete problems would better prepare students for success in early career roles. Special Consent Form Required.

Note: Co-Requisite Section

This is a taskforce initiated by the Math Pathway Task Force through Missouri Department of Higher Education. The Math Pathways Task Force, organized in October 2014 pursuant to House Bill 1042, strives to identify alternative entry level mathematics courses most effective and beneficial to each academic major. The task force works with faculty, administrators, professional associations, and state legislators to implement its recommendations. One of the goals is to build prerequisite within the course or offers just-in-time reviews, aka, Corequisite. At UMSL, we work closely with the state and try to implement the same ideas as the state to reconstruct some of our courses to cater to students' needs. This section is to serve such purpose.

This is how this section works - in addition to regular class time (3 hours each week), this section includes two augmentation/recitation hours per week. Augmentation/recitation hours will be conducted by a session leader. Students are required to attend both recitations and lectures throughout the semester.

It has been proven that these two extra hours of each week have been vital to students learning experience. Students appreciate the extra support provided to them, and believe that enjoy the class but not stressing out is the key to their success. If you believe this is the right time to learn, we are here for you!

Students must take ALEKS Math Placement test in order to register for this section of Math 1020 but there is no minimum ALEKS score required. Students who obtain a score below 25 are asked to take advantage of the free Prep and Learning module to refresh their math skills in preparation for the course. Intermediate Algebra background recommended.

Additional Fee - Arts and Sciences Supplemental Fee applies.

									This pilot course follows the co-requisite model which is based on successful results from COMPLETE COLLEGE AMERICA (CCA) research. The co-requisite part of the course is a remedial course that students take at the same time as their normal, college-level course. Students receive targeted support to help boost their understanding and learning of the college-level course material. Remediation is delivered as a co-requisite, rather than as a prerequisite, thus providing just-in-time academic support.  This particular pilot course works by offering students who are repeating Math 1030 after a failed attempt or for STEM majors who have not been able to obtain the cut score for ALEKS but have achieved a 25 or higher. The students who successfully complete the course will earn three credits for College Algebra and will then be ready to enter the other mathematics courses that are required for their degree. The regular college algebra course has three 75-minute classes, meeting three days a week. The pilot co-requisite course would have five 75-minute classes, meeting 5 days a week. The two extra days, Mondays and Wednesdays, would be spent on strengthening material and would be conducted by an experienced session leader. On Mondays, the students would be working on the "just in time review" required for the Tuesday lectures. On Wednesdays, the students would work on the more difficult of the new concepts for the week.  Students must take ALEKS Math Placement test in order to register for this section of Math 1030 and a minimum of score of 25 on ALEKS is required. Students should take advantage of the free Prep and Learning module to refresh their math skills in preparation for the course. Intermediate Algebra background recommended. 				Intl Social Movements/Protests  This seminar analyzes the role of social movements  as transformative catalysts of international norms  and rules leading to the emergence of protocols  and humanitarian laws. Seminar participants will  examine the impact of the politics of protest on  re-defining crimes against humanity, trans-border  trafficking of children and women, and introducing  protections for vulnerable communities such as  refugees fleeing political violence, targeted,  ethnic, gender-based, and religious groups. The  focus of this seminar is the examination of the  linkages between diverse social movements such as  - Argentina's Mothers of the Plaza, to post-war  Germany's Anti-Nuclear movements, India's the  Nirbhaya Feminsit Movement, Kenya's Green Belt  Movement, France's Reporters Without Borders and  the World Movements for Democracy, and Brazil's  Amar Sem Temer movement, and Women's Global  Network for Reproductive Rights – and the  emergence of new international laws to provide  protection for communities, groups and individuals  facing violation of their human rights world-wide.  Supply Chain Leadership & Stra
 Topic: Supply Chain Leadership & Strategy
 Course Description: Transforming an organization from traditional thinking to Lean thinking requires leadership. This model “builds” the individual into a Lean leader. This is critical in order to navigate through the waters of change management required to successfully execute and sustain the Lean supply chain journey. In this course, students will complete a deep dive of the House of Lean and explore the main aspects of lean leadership. Among other important topics, students will learn “go see” management, A3 thinking, 'leader as teacher' concepts, becoming an effective facilitator and change management, rooted in GE's Change Acceleration Process (CAP Model).
