- Distance Learning (DL) Off campus directed by a faculty member with one or more students.
- Partially Online (PO) A course where most or all (75%-99%) of the content is delivered online. Typically these sections have little face-to-face meetings, but there may be an orientation or in person exams, etc.
- In Person/Traditional (P) Course taught in a traditional classroom setting. No online technology used. Content is delivered in writing or orally. There may be a video of the class that is used during the initial delivery and viewed later. A physical location will be listed. Social distancing guidelines will be followed. Many courses will be moved to larger rooms to accommodate social distancing within the classroom.
- Online (OL) A course that 100 % of the content is delivered online with no in-person face-to-face meetings.

There are two types of 100% online classes

- Attend virtually at the day and time the class is taught. Also referred to as Synchronous learning. Consult the course schedule for specific meeting times when you need to be online, or
- No designated class meeting times are scheduled. Also referred to as Asynchronous learning. Days & Times are listed as TBA or ARR. Complete the online materials as outlined in the class syllabus.

NOTE: When “Arranged” or “TBA” is listed as “Days” (in Schedule Planner) and for “Days & Times” (in MyView), students are not expected to log in or Zoom at a designated time. Students will complete the online materials as outlined in the class syllabus.

Instruction Modes (Continued)

- Blended class (BL) Defined as having between 30 percent and 74 percent of the course content delivered online. The portions of the class taught in-person will have a physical location listed.

Examples of blended options

- ✓ Lecture/discussion group: Lectures for the whole class are online. Smaller discussion sections are in person.
- ✓ A two-day per week course meets one day on campus and the second day online.
- ✓ A two-day per week course meets one day on campus and the rest of the content is online in an asynchronous format.
- ✓ The course meets on-campus every other week and the weeks not on-campus are synchronous online.
- ✓ The course meets on-campus various days throughout the semester and then there is also asynchronous online content.

NOTE: For Blended courses be sure to scroll through all the lines of your schedule to see meeting dates/times and the notation for Online for the same course. See example on next page.
