Army ROTC seeks students for program

The purpose of the Army Reserve Officers' Training Corps (AROTC) is to develop selected college-educated men and women for positions of responsibility as officers in the Active Army, Army Reserve and National Guard. College students who successfully complete the program earn a commission as a second lieutenant in the U.S. Army.

AROTC also offers the student financial assistance in completing his degree requirements. AROTC offers two- and three-year scholarships that pay for tuition, gives a flat rate for payment of books and related classroom materials, and provides a subsistence allowance of $100 a month for up to 10 months each school year. The selection for these scholarships is based primarily on academic achievement, leadership potential, and demonstrated motivation toward an Army career. Non-scholarship students receive the $100 a month subsistence during their junior and senior year in ROTC.

AROTC is not the presence of the Army on the campus, but rather the presence of the campus in the Army. To this end, there are several objectives of the AROTC program: AROTC develops in each student the fundamentals of self-discipline, integrity, and responsibility; secondly, an appreciation of the role of a participating citizen in matters dealing with national defense; thirdly, the ability to evaluate situations, to make decisions, to understand people, and to practice those attributes considered essential in a leader; finally, to procure and produce junior officers who by education, training, attitude, and inherent qualities are suitable for service in the U.S. Army and its reserve components.

AROTC offers the student numerous opportunities to actually apply his leadership training rather than just listen to theory and never receive the chance to apply the theory. The St. Louis Area ROTC Cadet Corps is composed of a battalion and five or more companies with the students occupying the leadership positions and taking part in the planning and execution of all cadet functions.

The AROTC sponsors the following clubs and organizations:

—Scabbard and Blade: A national professional military honorary organization. Members participate in community service, social and cultural activities, and assist in the Gateway to the West Invitational Drill Meet.

—Pershing Rifles: A national society whose purpose is to develop a high degree of professionalism, leadership, competition, a sense of belonging, and pride in ROTC.

—Drill Team: Promotes proficiency in command and execution of drill and ceremony.

—Tactics Team (Rangers): Activities include patrolling, rappelling, communication techniques, and survival.

—Orienteering: This club builds land navigation skills and cross-country running ability.

Both local and national meets are attended.

—Cadet Club: This is a social organization for UMSL cadets. It promotes fellowship, development of leadership, and AROTC on the UMSL campus.

If this sounds like something you would like to try, come and check it out. You are under no obligation your first two years in AROTC. If you decide it's not for you during the first two years, you simply drop the course and you have no further obligation. You enroll for ROTC just like any other course during your freshman and sophomore years. For further information, call 553-5176 and ask for Capt. Knox.

Group assists business majors

Pi Sigma Epsilon is a national co-ed professional fraternity in marketing, sales management and selling. We exist to meet a need for providing a link between collegians and their professional future. This well-rounded, purposeful organization is dedicated toward helping business administration majors through many different activities. We provide exposure to the business world, the application of classroom theory to different marketing, selling and community service projects, and the opportunity to meet and talk with many of the business leaders of our nation. You will also get the chance to discuss ideas with thousands of our members from all over the country at the regional and national conventions, plus our parties, dinners, sporting and other events.

The Beta Sigma Chapter of Pi Sigma Epsilon sponsors two projects that are directly related to the university. At the beginning of each semester we produce and distribute folders for students' use, and each spring we sponsor the annual Busch Bash.

In addition to these events, we also sponsor many community service projects and fundraisers. Profits are used to sponsor members at various events.

Pi Sigma Epsilon is open to students at all levels in both day and evening college.

Interested? Then contact a member and ask how PSE has helped him or her as a key to the future. Pi Sigma Epsilon could be your key to the future!

Come to our special orientation meeting on Sept. 7 and learn more about us — we want to meet you!

from all levels of education. Our office is located in Room 582 Lucas Hall. Interested students may contact us through the Speech Communication Office at 553-5485.

Political Science Academy

You don't have to be a political science major to be interested in the political issues of the '80s. If you're looking for stimulating debate with faculty and students, join us this fall as we examine not only the '84 presidential election but many other issues as well.

Getting through

Beat the back-to-school blues

It's that time again.

Just when your summer was rolling along fine ... just when you'd gotten a deep dark tan, and gotten used to your summer job, and met that perfect summer someone ... you got your class schedule and fee statement in your mailbox. And here you are, back at that schoolbook grind.

Whether you're a returning student, or transferring from another school, or just starting out as a freshman, there are many steps you can take to make your college days much more pleasant and rewarding. And not all of them involve skipping class!

Below we've listed some helpful hints suggested by campus officials and our own staff members. Topics include avoiding run-ins with the UMSL police, studying for and taking exams, applying for financial aid, and general guidelines for making the most of your semester.

We gratefully acknowledge the information provided by Robert Carr, director of the Counseling Service; Deborah Sitek of the College of Arts and Sciences Academic Advising Office; Chief William Karabas of the UMSL police; and Mark Nugent, director of student financial aid.

A new semester

● If you're new to the campus, take a half hour to walk around. Use the map provided on page 20 of this issue, or just wing it — discover the bookstore, the library, the video games in the Summit lounge, the study areas in the classroom buildings, the weight room and swimming pool in the Mark Twain Building. Scope out each of your classrooms before the first day of school — you'll be able to relax knowing you won't be late because you got lost.

● Wait until you've attended your first classes before purchasing any books. Often you won't actually need everything listed in the bookstore. It is a good idea, however, to check out the textbooks under each of your class headings in advance — you'll know what the professor is talking about when he tells you which to buy.

● Take five minutes after each class to introduce yourself to the professor. Whether there are 20 or 200 in your class, you'll stand out if you've spoken directly to the teacher. Don't be afraid! They once were college students as well.

● Make a friend in each class. This can be vital to your success, especially if you ever need to borrow notes. In addition, studying together can be twice as effective — if you're having trouble, don't try to grasp the theories of algebra or evolution all on your own. Two heads, or even three, are better than one!

● Learn your way around the Thomas Jefferson Library. This goes for seniors as well! It's never too late. The endless resources tucked away there may seem overwhelming, but once you learn the system, you'll be surprised how much easier paper-writing and research can be. If you don't know how to proceed, ask for help.

Afraid you won't make the grade?

Worried about finding friends?

Campus parking giving you problems?

You'll be glad you did.

● Eat lunch (or breakfast) in the cafeteria at least once a week — by yourself, or with someone else. You'll see old friends, familiar faces from classes, and — lo and behold — a professor or two! You'll make new friends as well, as long as you remain receptive.

● Make an effort to learn what campus organizations can offer you, and then join one. You'll build a network of friends and acquaintances at UMSL that will stay with you after you graduate. In addition, you can learn new skills and make use of ones specific areas of study, and other general information necessary to planning a solid academic agenda. The catalog consists of two volumes: the "Graduate/Undergraduate Catalog" and "Course Description Bulletin" may be purchased for $2 and $1, respectively, at the campus bookstore — a worthwhile investment considering the time and money you'll save by not taking classes you won't need.

● The second biggest mistake? Not seeing an adviser before planning each semester's schedule. The catalog will help you plan, but to be on the safe side, have an you've already got. Many organizations tie together social, academic and service elements for a well-rounded program. Check with the office of Student Activities in the University Center for information about groups.

Academic actions adviser help you interpret it. One month before a new semester begins, make an appointment with your adviser.

● For students wishing to graduate soon: it may just be a wish if you don't file a degree application a year in advance. Once you've submitted the form, advisers will notify you of any lack in your credits before it's too late.

● Transfer students especially need the help an adviser can offer, because the chances are high you'll repeat classes or think a class is transferring when it isn't.

Making the most of exams

Briefly look over the entire test to see what is ahead of you. Read the directions and make sure you understand them. If in doubt, ask.

Sincerely attempt every question. However, answer questions you know first, thus relieving tension and gaining confidence, and loosening up material from your memory as you proceed. Leave hard questions until last.

If you think you know an item but are not sure, mark your response and come back to the question. However, first impressions tend to be correct, so if you do change your answer, be sure you have a good reason for doing so.

If a question seems unintelligible, reword it or break it down into parts.

Use information from other test items. Often the answer to one question is found in another.

In answering multiple-choice questions, anticipate the correct answer before looking at the options. Balance options against one another and eliminate obviously incorrect choices

In matching questions, work with one column at a time, matching each item of that column to all of the options in the second column.

In completing fill-in-the-blank and sentence-completion portions, guess if you're not sure. There's usually no penalty for guessing and it's best to write at least something. Give general answers if you don't know specifics (say 1900s instead of 1904 if you aren't sure, for example).

In true-or-false questions, watch for qualifiers or mandatory words such as "always," "never," or "must." If they are present, chances are that the statement is false, since few things are always, never or must. In a question containing words such as "seldom," "normally," or "generally," where an exception would not alter the answer, chances are that the answer is true.

In completing essay questions, answer the easiest question first. Outline your answers so you are organized, and don't ramble. If you don't know the answer, write something at least. Reread the question after you have answered it to be sure you have covered it all.

After completing all the questions, go back over the difficult or skipped items. Make sure you have written your answers in the correct place on the answer sheet.

Safety/traffic tips

● To avoid uncomfortable encounters with the UMSL police, obtain a parking sticker right away. After two or three $10 tickets, police say, you'll decide to get one anyway.

● Allow yourself enough time before class to find a parking space. Then you won't need to come up with a really good excuse for the policeman when he tickets you for parking in a faculty spot.

● Lock up valuables in the trunk, out of plain sight.

● Don't leave your car unlocked!

● Don't leave purses and books unattended in classrooms or the library.

● Evening students coming out of class late at night should walk in groups and park in well-lighted areas. If you must walk by yourself, call 5155 on any campus "Hotline" telephone (red phone) and ask for an escort. Don't take chances!

● Have patience with the police, Chief Karabas requests — especially during the first few hectic days of class.

Financial fitness

● Aid advisors suggest that when filling out the ACT Family Financial Statement, base it on the information from parents' and student's own income tax forms for the previous year.

● Parents should cooperate by helping the student fill out the form early, as the preferential deadline is April 1. Don't omit any answers. Round figures to the nearest dollar, eliminating the cents.

● Don't confuse "taxes withheld" with "taxes paid." Tax paid is the obligation for the year.

● Respond promptly to all correspondence from UMSL.

● Pick up the Guaranteed Student Loan Form from the Financial Aid Office instead of your bank. UMSL requires supplementary forms which are included in the packet.

● Submit all completed forms at the same time to avoid confusion.

● Turn forms in as early as April for the following school year.

● Applications for loans are still being accepted, but students who apply now won't receive loans in time for fall fees.

The waiting game

● Recognize when you're procrastinating, and then try to break the pattern. Do small tasks to get yourself started (write the first sentence of the term paper). You'll probably find that it's much easier to keep rolling.

● Divide projects into small, manageable pieces. Set reachable sub-goals that are specific (instead of lamenting over having to read five chapters by Monday, set a goal to read 40 pages by that same evening). This sense of accomplishment from having reached a goal will spur you on.

● Reward your non-procrastinating behavior by giving yourself a little something as a treat. Then enjoy your freedom once you've completed your task!

Managing time

● Make a daily list of things to do. Use brief snatches of time to accomplish small nagging tasks or making a dent in a larger project.

● For one week, log your time. See how you're really spending those hours. Then analyze your schedule and rearrange accordingly.

● Save energy! Eliminate negative feelings, criticisms of others, defensiveness for yourself. As you do this, a surplus of energy will result. Use the creative powers of sleep. The more demands you make on yourself, the more sleep you'll need. Don't neglect it!

● Develop your powers of concentration. Listen well and take notes carefully the first time. Read effectively. Understanding what you read is more important than reading rapidly. Increase your output by increasing your ability to absorb accurately and quickly what is going on around you.

U. Center provides wide variety of services

The University Center serves as the hub of out-of-classroom activities at UMSL. This complex houses University Food Services, an information and ticket desk, the Bookstore, University Center and Student Activities administrative offices, and meeting rooms. There also is a typing room, student government offices, and the Black Culture Room. Lounge space provides a comfortable environment for relaxation or study and a TV room and amusements area provide places for recreation.

The University Center administrative office supervises the operation of Food Services which features a "food market" or "scramble-type" food service in the lower level Underground, offering customers a complete menu selection ranging from popular fast-food items to hot meal service, between 7:30 a.m. and 6:30 p.m. Monday through Thursday, and from 7:30 a.m. to 2 p.m. on Friday. The upper level is a comfortable lounge-dining area, with vending service available for those seeking snacks or beverages.

A cafeteria in Marillac Hall provides snacks and meals for students and staff in the South Campus Complex from 8:30 a.m. to 6:30 p.m. Monday through Thursday, and 7:30 a.m. to 2 p.m. on Friday.

Complete catering services also are available and may be arranged through the campus reservations office in the University Center.

In addition to food service, the functions of the University Center office include reservation of rooms for student organizations, a coin-operated typing room which is open from 7 a.m. to 10 p.m. Monday through Thursday, and 7 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Friday, and information services located at the Information Desk in the lobby of the University Center. UMSL students staff the desk from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. Monday through Friday, providing information and referral services to the community. Tickets for on-campus and selected off-campus events may be purchased at the desk. In addition, a U.S. postage stamp machine is located in the lobby.

The campus Lost and Found department is also at the Information Desk. Persons with questions about campus activities and services are invited to call 553-5148 or stop by the desk. UMSL's 24-hour hotline may be dialed on any campus phone for information concerning campus films (5865), food service menus (5867), or the Information Desk (5148). To reach the numbers from off-campus, dial the university exchange (553) before dialing the extension number.

The Office of Student Activities in Room 250 University Center provides services and activities of an educational, cultural, social and recreational nature. Students interested in performing on-stage, writing for the Current, checkmating a challenger, floating scenic streams, caving, backpacking, or pursuing other special interests can join one of the 100 student clubs and organizations. Information concerning recognized department clubs, fine arts groups, fraternities and sororities, religious organizations, and special interest groups may be obtained from this office.

The office works with the student University Program Board and the faculty Concerts and Lectures Committee in planning a variety of cultural and social activities. These programs are subsidized by student activities fees and the university. Information can be obtained by calling 553-5536 or by coming to 250 University Center.

Concerts, including weekend evening concerts, for a reasonable admission, have featured such performers as Leo Kottke, Jean-Pierre Rampal, Nicolette Larson, Leon Redbone, and Dizzy Gillespie.

Free lectures are presented by such personalities as Ralph Nader, Bella Abzug, Elaine Viets, Vincent Price, Walter Williams, and James Doohan.

The Film Series for the university community features weekend showings of contemporary films at a nominal fee.

Theater may include performances by such professional theater companies as England's Royale Shakespeare Company and the Young Vic.

"Wednesday Noon Live" features free entertainment by St. Louis talent from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. Wednesdays in the University Center.

"Comedy Improv at the Summit" features lounge acts in a nightclub setting the first Friday of October, November, December, February, March and April. Past programs have included rising young comedians and popular musical groups.

One of the most popular activities on campus is the Student Activities Colorado ski trips in January of each year. Between 300 and 500 UMSL students, faculty, staff, alumni and friends enjoy the thrill of learning to ski or developing their existing skills on the slopes of the major ski areas in America.

Services provided for UMSL students through the Office of Student Activities include:

—Coordinating a computer match car pool service, a shuttle bus service from south city and South County, and a series of student-operated van pools. Those students interested in ride-sharing or requiring transportation are invited to drop by 250 University Center or call 553-5536 for information.

—The Student Activities Office also maintains a list of available apartments, rooms, and flats in the North County area. Lists of persons requesting roommates are also available.

—Quality photocopying and mimeographing services, including electric stencil-cutting, are provided at reasonable rates in the office. Call 553-5536 for information.

Also housed in the University Center are the offices of the UMSL Student Association and the Black Culture Room. The student governing body welcomes students who drop in its offices at 262 University Center or encourages interested or concerned students to call its office at 553-5104. The Black Culture Room, located at 254 University Center, houses a tutorial service and is equipped with a study area and lounge. The room is named "Umajaa," an African word meaning brothers and sisters working together. Students are welcome to drop in or call 553-5731.

Sponsors 'Study Abroad' programs

The Center for International Studies supports faculty research on international and intercultural studies and provides programs and services that benefit UMSL students, faculty, and the St. Louis community. Among the specific activities of interest to students are the following:

Certificate Programs in International Studies — The center administers, for the College of Arts and Sciences, the undergraduate certificates in East Asian studies, European studies and Latin American studies. These certificates, which combine course offerings from different departments, enable students to earn the equivalent of a minor in addition to their major. Certificates earned are noted on a student's transcript, and certify accomplishment in a field of study which can contribute to a career in education, business, government and foreign affairs. Lists of requirements and application forms are available in the center.

Study Abroad Office — The center serves as the campus depository for information on study abroad programs sponsored by other institutions and organizations and provides assistance to students seeking information on such programs. Students are advised of study abroad and exchange programs offered by the other University of Missouri campuses as well as the UMSL student exchange programs. Currently, UMSL has student exchange programs with the University of Lancaster (U.K.), Stuttgart University (West Germany), National Taiwan Normal University (Taiwan), Tamkang University (Taiwan), and Kaohsiung Teacher's College (Taiwan). This year an UMSL student will attend the University of Lancaster and students from Lancaster and Stuttgart will attend UMSL.

International Seminar Series — Each year this series presents a number of guest speakers on campus to discuss research or matters of topical interest in international studies. Ten to 20 seminars are held each year and are open to all who are interested. Seminars are listed in the Current and announcements of seminars are posted on campus bulletin boards and in the center.

The Center for International Studies is located in Room 336 SSB. For more information, call 553-5753.

CAD to undergo changes this year

The tutorial service operated by the Center for Academic Development will have some changes this year. The center will become a referral service, helping students find tutors for courses in which they want individualized help, and allowing the tutor and the student to decide a mutually agreeable price.

The service will operate a computerized referral list. Students wanting to tutor for a course will contact the service and fill out an application. The service will request a copy of the tutor applicant's transcript from the registrar and will send it and the application to the academic department teaching the course for approval. Data on approved tutors will be maintained on the service's computer file. Tutors will determine their own charges (usually an hourly rate) and times they want to tutor. To apply as a tutor students should contact the center at 507 SSB Tower.

A student wanting a tutor can call the service at 553-5199 and request names and telephone numbers of tutors for a given course. The service will also indicate the price set by the tutor and preferred hours for tutoring. If the service is not open, an answering machine will take messages and the service operator will call the student back.

The change was prompted by low usage of the tutorial service and problems attracting tutors in high demand areas such as computer science. The center hopes that providing a referral service for a "free market" tutoring operation will be helpful both to tutors and to their clients. The center will continue to operate its free instructional labs in mathematics, writing, and reading/study skills on the fourth floor of the Social Sciences and Business Building.

The tutorial service was begun some eight years ago by the Student Association, and initially cost students $1 per hour for tutoring. The cost to students for CAD's tutorial service had tripled by last year, and the center lost about $4 for every hour of tutoring.

Student Staff offers 'on-air' opportunities

As recently as the late '70s, college students in the United States graduated with a liberal, varied curriculum under their belts, knowing their path toward employment would be relatively short. Students took it for granted that secure employment in their chosen fields would be theirs without prior experience.

Today, those who have chosen college as a means of acquiring life and occupational skills aren't quite as certain that they will be able to find positions in their fields. Many graduates have come face to face with the "Catch-22" of "the successful candidate will have five years experience in..."

And that experience is hard to come by!

The KWMU Student Staff offers a rare opportunity for many students to acquire those "hands on" experiences. KWMU's Student Staff is a functioning, integral part of KWMU, FM 91, a 100,000-watt National Public Radio affiliate with offices and studios here at UMSL on the first floor of Lucas Hall. The Student Staff produces and airs its own jazz and new music programming, aided by KWMU staff members and UMSL faculty members. In addition, the Student Staff is involved in all aspects of radio and includes a top-notch news department, provides broad coverage of area sports, and produces a weekly feature program.

The Student Staff and KWMU have welcomed such recording artists as Laurie Anderson, George Winston, Violent Femmes, X, and Leon Redbone, and are actively involved in other station activities such as the KWMU softball team, the Classic Holiday, the Mayfest Membership Drive and the annual KWMU Forest Park Walkathon.

Again we return to the question of experience.

Broadcasting is a particularly difficult profession to break into. "You must have already done something before we'll let you do it for us," is a familiar situation. KWMU Student Staff alumnae have found their work at KWMU to be invaluable in securing broadcast positions and currently are working at KMOX, KCFM, KYKY, KGLO and other radio stations across the country — and even KWMU! Student Staff alumnae are well-represented in the visual media, employed at KTVI, American Cablevision, Busch Creative Services, and several area newspapers.

But the Student Staff is NOT in any way just for speech communication majors or for those interested in media! Experience and skills gained working in radio can be valuable for graduates in all majors. There are things to learn and do in radio for the business administration and physics major as well as those in education, English and mathematics. The skills and resume credentials gained through Student Staff involvement will be useful to anyone seeking entry into any profession where communication is important. Student Staff alums are using these skills at several banks, advertising agencies, the National Organization of Women, and McDonnell-Douglas Corp. to mention just a few.

It's a chance for writers to write, electronic engineers to calibrate, and marketing majors to finally DO something with their "S" curves. It's every bit as much as an opportunity for those interested in the "live" side of the mike to do news reports, features and, yes, "on-air" broadcasts, all the while refining their skills and gaining new abilities.

It's a chance to actually DO radio.

You can be as involved as you are capable of being. Interested students who wish to be part of our Student Staff are welcome at all levels of participation, from an hour or two per week to a position on our Executive Staff. Internships are available for communication majors, and some opportunities for paid positions exist at KWMU.

One thing that hasn't been mentioned might be important. It's fun!

So join us on the KWMU Student Staff. Watch for announcements concerning our general staff meetings or simply drop by the station in Lucas Hall, come by the Student Staff offices in 580 and 554 Lucas Hall, or call 553-5488.

And let's do radio!

Academics, activities part of Black Collegians

DISTINGUISHED GUEST: The Rev. Jesse Jackson, one-time contender for the Democratic presidential nomination, spoke at UMSL during a visit sponsored by the Associated Black Collegians.

The Associated Black Collegians of UMSL are committed to the academic development, cultural enrichment, political awareness, and retention of black students. ABC accomplishes these goals by referring students to academic tutors and inviting enlightening speakers to our weekly meetings.

In the past ABC's administrative volunteers have worked closely with the Black Faculty and Professional Staff Association. This organization, formed in 1983, helps ABC advise administrators of the concerns facing black students on campus and the community that supports us. The implementation of the new Black Studies minor, the hiring of more black instructors and administrators as well as correcting the insensitivities toward ethnic minorities that prevail at UMSL have been recent concerns of ABC.

Recently the Legislative Black Caucus of Missouri held open hearings to try to improve race relations at UMSL. These hearings hopefully will benefit taxpayers by insuring all students receive an equal opportunity to further their education. This year ABC will continue to work with administrators to improve the low 10 percent black student population and the 2.6 percent black faculty population. We will also continue our usual cultural programming, which includes Kwanzaa, Black History Month, our Umoja Newsletter, and the always-spectacular talent show.

If you wish to participate or attend our meetings, come to Room 254 University Center and talk to our staff. Meetings are every Wednesday at noon. For more information, call 553-5731.

Remember, the struggle continues. . . .

Math Club not just for math majors

Did you know that there is a Math Club at UMSL? Well, there is! The Math Club has an office at 301 Clark Hall — complete with desks, math reference books, chairs, a dictionary, and people. The people reflect the fundamental character of our organization. They come from many different areas of interest: business administration majors, education majors, physics majors, a few math majors, and others.

The most beneficial part of being a member is the closeness you can achieve with the faculty and other students. This closeness is achieved through many social and academic activities. If you want to make school more interesting, become an integral part of the Math Club.

To join the Math Club, just stop by the Math Club Office during this semester's Open House on Aug. 30 at 301 Clark Hall or come by anytime. Dues for the semester are $2. Membership does not place any additional responsibilities on you; you can be as involved in the Math Club as you want to be. However, the time spent is merely an investment in friendship. We are looking forward to seeing you!

Reorganization of TJ library makes use easier

The Thomas Jefferson Library has been reorganized to provide for several more years of collection growth and to increase access to public services.

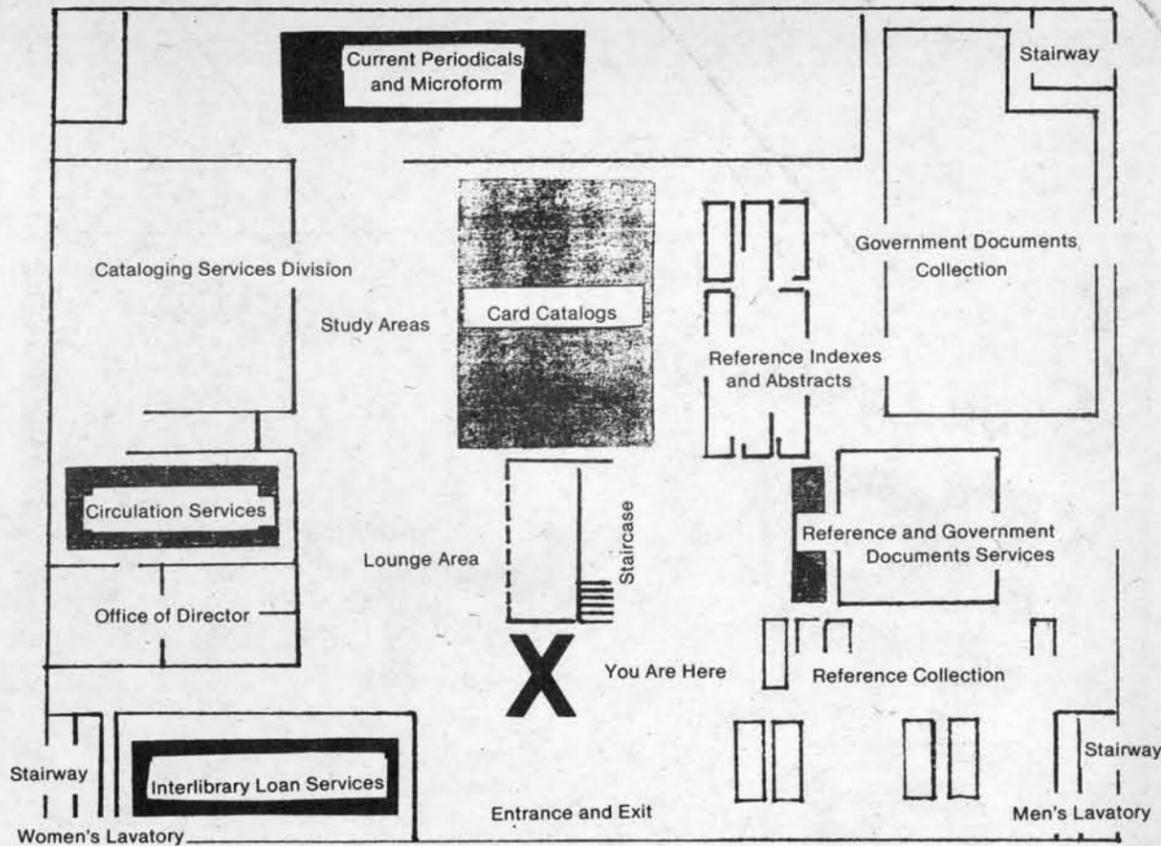

All public services are now on the main level. As you enter the front doors of the library, you will find the interlibrary loan department to your immediate left. As you move in a clockwise direction around the main level, you will find the Circulation Desk, the Current Periodicals and Microform collections and the Reference and Government Publications collections and services.

The general collections of the library now begin on the second level, starting with A through DX and continuing alphanumerically on the fourth and fifth levels. The second level was the former location of the Current Periodicals and Microform Collections.

A spacious lounge area has been created on the fourth level around the main stairway leading from the main (third) level to the fourth level. This area contains the Current Reading Collection and a display area for exhibits.

Coin operated copying machines are available on all levels of the library.

These moves should provide for several years of collection growth, stabilizing locations of services and collections for several years. Most of the monies from these operations came from frozen library positions and most of the physical labor was done by the library staff.

Readers needed for disabled students. Come to 301 Woods Hall for further information or to apply. Hours vary.

Aerobic Dance Conditioning Exercise classes: Twelve-week offering starts Tuesday, Sept. 4, and runs through Nov. 29. Tuesday/Thursday, 5:15-6:30 p.m., Room 161 Mark Twain Building. Classes include flexibility and strength conditioning exercises, aerobic dance workout and a conscious relaxation segment. Very complete class. Cost is $45. For more information contact Gail Ches at 553-5226.

Libertarians seek support addressing issues like men's and children's rights, as well as women's rights, forced busing, the Federal Reserve System and the income tax. And, we carried on a lively exchange in the letters to the editor column of the Current. This year we'd like to create a speakers bureau for area high schools and carry on a number of social activities.

Libertarians see a free marketplace as necessary to maintain personal freedoms and recognize that a free market is only possible when nations are at peace. So, the issues we are strategically most concerned with are repeal of draft registration (slavery and preparation for war), repeal of the income tax (legalized theft) and abolition of the Federal Reserve System (centralized counterfeiting). We welcome anyone who agrees with us on any issue to join us in the fight for liberty. We are interested in forming alliances with other anti-war and anti-tax, pro-free-market groups as well.

For students who want to find out more about libertarianism, we can introduce you to any of several hundred libertarian and libertarian-related books in the UMSL library on everything from economics, history, psychology and sociology to lighter topics like science fiction and, yes, even German nursery rhymes and French pornography (as they say, "Libertarians are 'conservatives' who know how to have a good time!").

But really folks, next time you're sitting in that public restroom, think about Big Brother leering down at you through his hidden camera and ask yourself: "Hasn't 'government' gotten just a little TOO big?" Then call Terry Inman at 837-5950 and help us reignite the torch of freedom in America.

From Aristotle to Ayn Rand, from Frederick Nietzsche to H.L. Mencken, from Tom Paine to Rose Wilder Lane, from Pierre Proudhon to Karl Hess and from John Lock to Murray Rothbard, libertarianism is the creed that carried the human race out of the dark ages. Capitalism brought rising living standards and the recognition of the American pioneers of individual autonomy brought forth a desire of individuals to help each other out in times of distress. Libertarianism has a rich heritage of several hundred years, dating back to the American, English, Dutch and Swiss revolutions. Whereas contemporary liberalism and conservatism are but feudalistic reactions to freedom, dating only to 1900 and 1955, respectively.

The Libertarian Students organization was the most active political organization on campus last year. We participated in debates ranging from the nuclear freeze and foreign intervention to economic policy. We brought in a large selection of speakers,

Offers professional counseling

The Counseling Service offers free professional assistance to UMSL students, staff and faculty with personal, social, educational or career concerns. Individual counseling and group counseling, as well as a wide range of workshops geared to specific needs, are available. A complete list of workshops for the 1984-85 academic year can be found outside the Counseling Service office (427 SSB) as well as other key locations on campus.

SIGI, a computer-based interactive guidance system for career exploration and decision making, is housed in the Counseling Service. SIGI may be used by appointment without charge by members of the UMSL community. In addition, a Career Library, well-stocked with career-related materials and college catalogs, is available for use without appointment.

People who want to see a counselor can do so by making an appointment either in person or by telephoning 553-5711. In an emergency, however, students can be seen almost immediately. The Counseling Service is open from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday. For more information, call 553-5711 or visit the office at 427 SSB.

An active part of UMSL's Counseling Service is the Peer Counseling Center. This is a student organization staffed by undergraduates who are trained and supervised by, and work in conjunction with, professional counselors and psychologists in the UMSL Counseling Service. They are, however, unique in that their activities are geared toward providing special services to the UMSL student body.

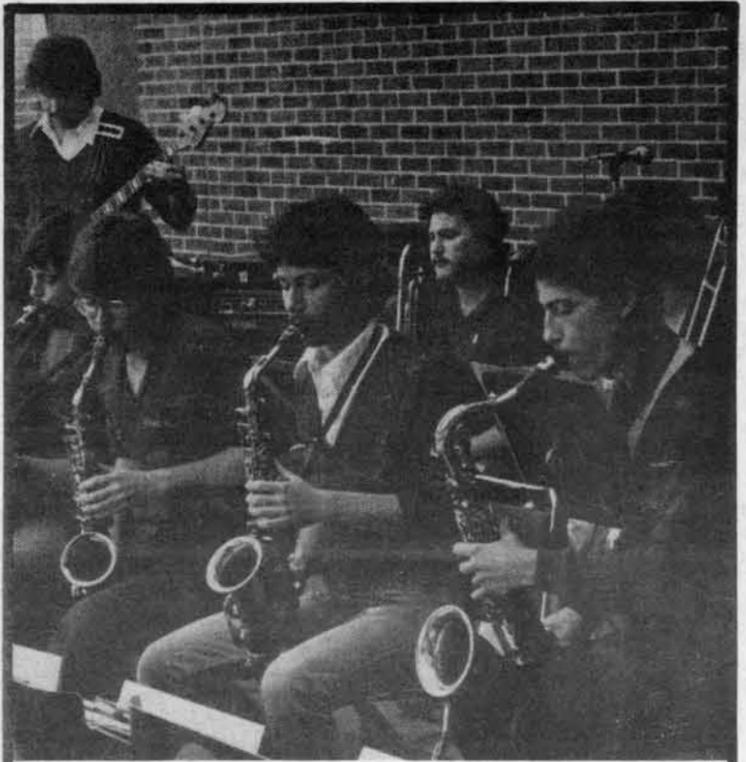

This semester, Peer Counseling will be providing a variety of free workshops in career exploration, time management, resume writing, interviewing skills, overcoming procrastination, preparing for graduate school, and relaxation. These workshops are scheduled at specific times throughout the semester. If a student cannot attend at the scheduled time, peer counselors are flexible in that they will arrange another time to meet with the student for an individual workshop.

The center also provides personal counseling to students on a walk-in basis. Personal problems may include family concerns, grades, relationships or any of the hundreds of problems that plague students in general. This service is on a short-term basis, is confidential, and is open to providing referrals when necessary.

In order to provide these services, all peer counselors undergo a training period of one year. During this time, interested students take courses designed to teach effective listening skills and basic counseling techniques. Once a peer counselor, however, the training is continuous. Once a week in-service and business meetings, supervised sessions with professional staff in the Counseling Service, and practical experience are just a few of the requirements for peer counselors.

The Peer Counseling office is located in the Counseling Service, 427 SSB. It is staffed throughout the day from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. For more information about the services, or if you are interested in finding out about becoming a peer counselor, call the Peer Counseling Center at 553-5730 or drop in and talk to one of the staff members.

Wide range of services at Optometry Clinic

UMSL's School of Optometry would like to invite you to visit the Optometry Clinic facility. Located at 135 Marillac Hall on the South Campus, the Optometry Clinic is open to the public as well as faculty, staff and students of the university. Our primary goal is to provide patients with high quality vision care. This purpose is consistent with our overall goal of training highly qualified vision care practitioners to serve the citizens of Missouri and the Midwestern region. To achieve this goal, we have close faculty supervision by licensed optometrists and the latest, state-of-the-art instrumentation.

THE EYES HAVE IT: UMSL's Optometry Clinic offers a 20 percent discount to UMSL students, faculty and staff on all professional service fees.

Primary Care Clinic

The first step in our examination procedure is to get to know you, assess your eye health, and determine the ability of your visual system to do what is demanded of it or see if you require eyeglass correction. To accomplish this task, we offer thorough eye examinations to obtain a comprehensive "data base" on all patients. This will serve as the basis of all future care rendered to you. A comprehensive examination requires about two hours and is performed by third- and fourth-year students under the direct supervision of highly qualified clinical faculty members. While two hours may seem like a long time for an examination, you must remember that this is a teaching clinic; thus, more comprehensive examinations are performed to arrive at a diagnosis. We are sure that after the examination, you will be pleased with its thoroughness.

Prescription eyewear services are available from our dispensary at competitive costs. Patients who are ordering prescription eyewear may choose from a large selection of modestly priced frames as well as designer frames. Patients who need various occupational and cosmetic tints will also find these available.

Should you desire or require specialized services, you will be referred to the appropriate specialty clinic. We have specialty clinics in contact lenses, binocular vision, low vision, ocular health assessment, and specialized visual analysis. These clinics utilize the most advanced equipment and techniques available. They are equipped and staffed to handle those patients who need specialized care above and beyond the standard examination and treatment procedures normally offered in a general eye examination.

Specialty Clinics

The contact lens clinic offers patients an alternative to spectacle correction. Many people can obtain better vision with contact lenses than with spectacles: for example, those with keratoconus or those who have had cataract surgery. Others wear contact lenses so they can be more involved in athletics or other recreational activities. Many feel they "look" better wearing contact lenses instead of glasses.

Not only do we have the standard "hard" and "soft" contact lenses, but UMSL is also an investigator for the development of new contact lens designs. With the wide selection of lens types available, many persons who previously could not be fitted with contact lenses can now successfully wear them.

The binocular vision and pediatric vision care clinic is devoted to helping patients who have problems with their eyes working together such as amblyopia (lazy eye), crossed eyes or other eye muscle coordination difficulties. The problem will be thoroughly evaluated, and a treatment program of eye exercises or spectacles may be prescribed, if indicated. The progress of the patient is then closely monitored. The faculty members in this area are also interested in evaluating children with learning difficulties which may have some visual basis. They work closely with educators, psychologists and others to help remedy these conditions.

The low vision and visual rehabilitation clinic provides comprehensive examinations and rehabilitative follow-up to patients who are partially sighted. Many of the patients examined in this clinic are legally blind (corrected visual acuity of 20/200 or lower). Many legally blind and visually impaired individuals have remaining vision which can be improved through the use of sophisticated optical devices.

For the visually impaired individual, restoring usable vision means elevated self-esteem, improved self-confidence, and the ability to lead a fuller, more productive life.

The ocular health assessment clinic was established to provide evaluation of patients with known or suspected ocular disease such as cataracts, glaucoma, retinal degeneration, and other eye afflictions of a local or general systemic nature. Many times, conditions progress slowly without producing warning symptoms until irreparable damage has been done. Prompt diagnosis and management can often improve a patient's vision and, in some cases, can help prevent the progression of the disorder. Patients requiring medical consultation or treatment will be referred to the appropriate specialist.

The specialized visual analysis clinic is specifically designed to provide in-depth evaluation of visual functions which are beyond the scope of those normally provided. The examination procedures offered include a comprehensive analysis of color vision or night vision and evaluation of vision in patients who are not able to communicate or respond to normal test procedures. Examples are the electrodiagnostic evaluation (to measure brain electrical activity while seeing), ocular photography documentation (to record external and internal anomalies), and computerized visual field analysis (automated means of measuring peripheral vision).

We have strived to provide our patients with a comprehensive clinical facility designed to offer high quality vision care. An important aspect of this service is health education. We believe you deserve to be well-informed regarding your vision and eye health. We also provide referral services to and from practitioners throughout the state of Missouri and the Midwest.

All examinations are by appointment. To obtain additional information about the services offered by the Optometry Clinic, please call 553-5131.

Located in 107A Benton Hall, the Women's Center is a good place to get support and assistance in coping with UMSL, help in doing research on women, and answers to almost everything. The Center is also a good place to relax, have coffee, and share ideas and experiences with other UMSL students in a comfortable atmosphere.

There are opportunities for students to get involved in the activities and work of the Women's Center at all levels. The Center is open from 8:30 am to 5:00 pm, Monday through Friday. For more information call our 24-hour number, 553-5380.

PKP elects officers

The UMSL chapter of Phi Kappa Phi received approval in 1980 to join over 225 chapters of the national honor society. Phi Kappa Phi recognizes scholarship in all parts of the university as its motto signifies: "May the love of learning rule all persons."

The 1984-85 officers of the UMSL chapter are William Mitchell, president; Janet Berlo, vice president; Harold Turner, secretary; Huber Walsh, treasurer; Sally Fitzgerald, public information officer. Members will meet once a month beginning Sept. 6 at 2 p.m. in Room 75 J.C. Penney to plan activities such as the May 1985 address by Dr. Garry E. Hunt, director, Center for Remote Sensing, Imperial College, London, England. He spoke during initiation ceremonies for approximately 80 junior, senior, graduate and faculty members.

At the same occasion, recent graduate Linda Gray Bick was honored as a recipient of a national Phi Kappa Phi scholarship. A Summa Kum Laude, May 1983 UMSL graduate, Bick received the 1983 Student of the Year award from Alpha Sigma Lambda Honor Society of the Evening College at UMSL. She will attend St. Louis University Medical School.

Psychology Club open

When you become a member of the Psychology Organization, you will have the opportunity to interact with other students with similar interests, both socially and academically. You do not have to be a psychology major to join.

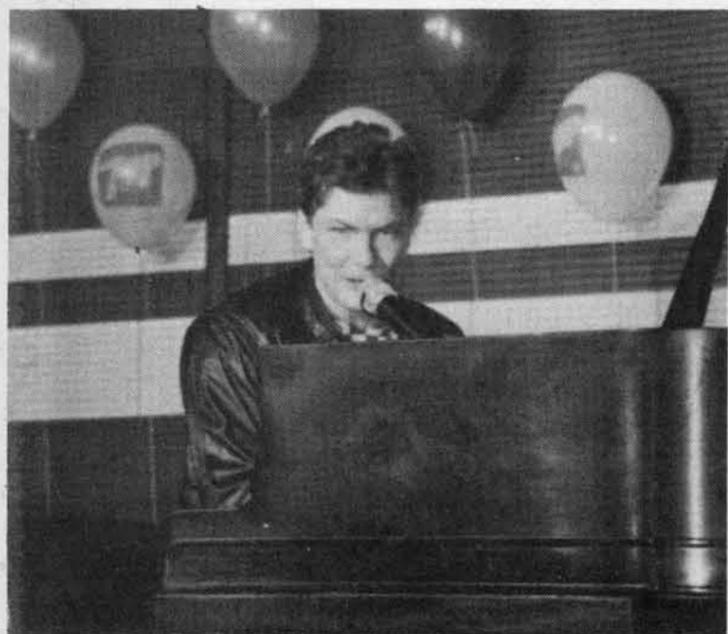

As a member, you would help to arrange sponsorships and co-sponsorships of programs dealing with subjects concerning psychology and related areas. You would have access to a resource library of books and tapes on various subjects. You would be able to relax in a supportive environment where ideas and opinions can be expressed and exchanged freely.

Since the membership is diverse, not only in major areas of interest but also in age, experience (in college and career) and knowledge, you can learn the best way to approach your problems and avoid the common pitfalls.

We will see you soon. We are located at 337 Stadler Hall; call us at 553-6183 and ask for Sandy.

Board entertains with films, fun

IMPROVISATIONAL: Musician and comedian Scott Jones hams it up at the popular UPB "Comedy Improv" series.

The University Program Board is UMSL's primary programming body for films, fine arts, lectures, concerts, video, homecoming and special events.

Supported in part by student activities fees, the UPB encourages all students to take advantage of its various programs.

The UPB is run by 15 elected students with advisement from the coordinator of student activities. Elections are held at the end of each spring semester and are decided upon by the previous board. In addition, the board recruits non-elected additional committee members to serve on its eight committees.

Films to be highlighted this fall include "Footloose," "Sudden Impact," "Terms of Endearment" and eight other major titles. Movies are played every Friday and Saturday night, and admission is only $1 for UMSL students.

A video dance will be held Sept. 28 for the first time, by the contemporary concerts committee. Several large screens will be used and popular videos will be played. Past popular concerts have included Leon Redbone, Nicolette Larson and the legendary Dizzy Gillespie.

The special events committee provides the "Comedy Improv at the Summit" series on the first Friday of each month. Hypnotist and comedian Tom Deluca has been the program's most noted performer. This fall Jay Leno, performer on the Johnny Carson and David Letterman shows, will be the major act. Musician and comedian Scott Jones will be at UMSL once again.

"Wednesday Noon Live" is a popular program on campus, providing students with live entertainment from popular local bands every Wednesday at 11:30 a.m.

Students interested in learning more about the UPB or any of its programs should call the Office of Student Activities at 553-5536. Committee seats are still open for interested students.

ASPA open to all management students

ASPA is the American Society of Personnel Administrators. The UMSL chapter of this organization is open to all students, undergraduate and graduate, who are interested in personnel or business management. The organization provides informational and social activities for members.

Among these activities are monthly meetings with speakers from the management area. Plans for the future include developing an employment skills workshop and providing internship possibilities.

A variety of monetary awards are available for members who prepare papers or research in this area. All members are eligible to attend monthly dinners with professionals in the St. Louis area, an excellent way to network and build job contacts.

Anyone interested in personnel or business management is invited to join ASPA. For more information, call 553-6278.

Republicans sponsor activities

The College Republicans are an action oriented organization.

During the past semester the group's activities included talks and discussions with Maj. Gen. Henry Mohr, AUS (ret.), former commander of the Reserves and presently with the Heritage Foundation; Dr. Alejandro Balanos, a native Nicaraguan and founder of the Nicaraguan Information Center; four Nicaraguans from the Confederation of Nicaraguan Professionals; three students from El Salvador; and Gene McNary, one-time candidate for governor and St. Louis county executive.

Other activities included participation in a series of debates (of which we won a substantial majority), publication of a newsletter, and participation in student government and the general university community.

If you would like to meet other

Republicans, develop public speaking abilities, get involved in bringing speakers to campus, help put our newsletter or just want to get involved and have fun with new friends, then join the college Republicans. Drop a note in our mailbox, second floor of the University Center, or call Joe at 721-5486. Leave your name and number. Notice of our first meeting will be posted and our first debate will be during the first week of school.

Creativity is key to Wargamers

The UMSL Medieval Wargamers is a student organization formed to provide a diversion for students who have some free time from their studies and work. Our group usually meets every week on Fridays during the fall and winter semesters from noon to 8 p.m. in the University Center Lounge or Room 156 University Center. Our group mainly plays role-playing games, but we also play strategy games and occasionally some card games.

Role-playing games are a fairly new breed of games that are a combination of ad-lib acting, communicative skills, logic, strategy, intuition and the luck of the dice. You get to play out a fantasy role of some real or popular fictional character or you can make up your own and play a part in a scenario created and/or directed by what is called a gamemaster, GM, DM or sometimes, jokingly, God. So, you have a chance to be that knight that saves the fair damsel in distress or be James Bond, 007, and save the world from nuclear destruction.

The character you create grows by surviving each new adventure and gaining experience. Even if you don't survive you have the pleasure of knowing you gave it your best shot — after all, "Role players never die, they just roll up a new character."

Role-playing games are great for developing your creativity and getting you out of your shell. So give it a try and be free to express yourself. Our organization offers an opportunity for old and new students to meet new friends. For more information, call Major Hieken at 385-1433.

PIKE STYLE!

One above the rest!

For information about Pi Kappa Alpha or UMSL fraternities, call Tom at 423-2366.

Pikes promote fellowship, spirit

The purpose of Pi Kappa Alpha is to promote social interaction, scholarship and friendship in a college environment.

The Pi Kappa Alpha house is located within five minutes of the UMSL campus.

As one of the largest national social fraternities, Pikes offer a wide variety of social activities such as UMSL's longest-running spring break Florida trip, Bust-Out (weekend) in the Ozarks, Las Vegas Night at Six Flags, house parties and a Clam Bake on an island in the Missouri River.

Campus involvement for Pikes includes winning Greek Week and Rivermen Spirit Night at the men's varsity basketball game — both for the second straight year. Pikes were the first student organization to receive approval for serving beer at the University Program Board's "Comedy Improv" program.

Community service projects have included building the World's Largest Ice Cream Sundae for Cystic Fibrosis, a Muscular Dystrophy Association

Dance-a-Thon and the Pi Kappa Alpha Pumpkin Pie Eating Contest for the St. Vincent Home for Children.

The Pike scholarship program includes workshops in time management, study skills and university resources. Also, there are a textbook pool, tutoring assistance and awards each semester for various categories such as highest and most improved grade point averages. Several members achieve recognition for making the Dean's List each semester.

Intramural sports in which Pikes participate include football, soccer, volleyball and basketball. They have received championships and playoff finishes in football, soccer and volleyball in recent years. Several members have earned positions on varsity athletic teams as well.

College men interested in learning more about Pi Kappa Alpha, or fraternities in general at UMSL, should call 423-2366 or contact the Office of Student Activities at 553-5536.

Urban research done at Metro Studies Center

The Center for Metropolitan Studies, located in Room 362 SSB, was established in 1965 to conduct research on urban problems, offer training experiences for students in urban research, and provide service to the St. Louis metropolitan area in helping citizens and leaders deal with problems of importance to the region.

The major operating objective of the center is to produce research findings that will assist citizen groups, client groups, and public and private officials in forming and implementing humane, equitable and effective social policies. Audiences for the center's work include representatives and members of the private, public and volunteer sectors of society in addition to academic and professional colleagues.

The center is staffed primarily by UMSL faculty members from the departments of economics, political science, sociology, history, psychology, fine arts and business administration.

For more information on the center, call Donald Phares, director, at 553-5562.

Opportunities in government are plenty

The UMSL Student Association is the organization which represents students at every level of the decision-making process from the campus bureaucracy to the state legislature. It is student government and more!

There are numerous opportunities for involvement and meaningful experience in every phase of its operation. Every student is welcome, needed and appreciated regardless of age, previous experience, or other arbitrary factors. In fact, you are already a member of the association by virtue of your being a student.

This year's association is pledged to wage war on apathy and aggressively represent student interests at every level. We can only succeed, however, if those with similar inclinations answer the call to involvement. Among the ways an entering student can do so are the following:

1. Run for the Student Association Assembly in the new-student elections Sept. 24 and 25. (A number of seats is reserved exclusively for entering students and you needn't possess awesome credentials to earn one.)

2. Volunteer your services in the Student Association office (262 University Center, 553-5104 or 553-5105; ask for Greg or Barb). Many projects will soon get underway and manpower (and womanpower) is always at a premium!

3. Attend Student Association's monthly town-hall meetings and air your gripes and opinions in a dialogue with the association's elected leaders.

4. Apply to serve on the Student Activities Budget Committee, University Center Advisory Board, Student Services Fee Committee, or similar bodies appointed by Student Association. (Some require experience; others are crying for interested individuals.)

5. Consider running for the University Senate in the spring. There are 25 student seats elected at-large to serve with approximately 75 faculty and 15 administrators. There also are numerous Senate committees elected by the Senate itself for which you need not be a Senator — these committees deal with every area of the campus from financial aid to fiscal resources (how money is spent) to the curriculum and beyond.

6. Apply for a paid student position in the Student Association office.

7. Join a Student Association committee (Legislative Affairs, Communications, Administrative, Social or Grievance). These committees are open to all interested students (no election necessary). All you need to do is contact the office. Our Legislative Affairs Committee, which is relatively new, probably offers the greatest challenge and can use all the help it can get.

Many students are amazed at how quickly they can advance and develop their leadership skills within Student Association: interest and motivation are the most important factors at a commuter campus like UMSL. (You will find they are much more important than your background coming in.) Good followers are needed just as badly as good leaders and some students get involved because they enjoy the opportunity to meet and interact with many interesting (?) people from all corners of the campus.

Among the issues to be discussed at the first assembly meeting will be strategies for fighting a proposed fee increase; affirmative action policies and race relations at UMSL; UMSL participation in a state student lobby in Jefferson City; and the University of Missouri's investment policy as it relates to South Africa. Again we urge all incoming students with even a smidgen of interest to stop by to see what we have to offer each other and our fellow students.

Sociology degree literature available

The Sociology Office is located in the Social Sciences and Business Building at 707 SSB Tower. Chairperson of the department is Dr. George J. McCall.

The Sociology Department offers work leading to the B.A. and B.S. in sociology and, in cooperation with the School of Education, the B.S. in education with an emphasis in social studies. A minor in sociology also is offered.

Faculty stress the scientific and applied aspects of sociology. Social forces and cultural traditions affecting the individual are studied from a scientific perspective, and first-hand exposure to their effects is stressed through community involvement. Throughout, the contributions of sociology toward a well-rounded liberal arts education are emphasized.

The department's scientific approach is reflected in an emphasis on the development of adequate theoretical and methodological tools. In addition, there is strong emphasis on the applied uses of sociological insights and methods in a distinctly urban thrust. Many faculty members are engaged in research on urban-related issues and work with various urban agencies, particularly in the areas of crime, delinquency, social welfare and education.

Sociology majors should obtain a copy of "Guide to Undergraduate Studies in Sociology," from their advisers to familiarize themselves with the degree programs, rules and regulations, and interest of faculty members. All majors should consult their advisers regularly.

deal with school, jobs, housing problems, drugs, or any other problems that they may encounter. Office hours are 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday, Thursday and Friday and 8 a.m. to 7 p.m. on Tuesday and Wednesday.

For more information, contact the Veterans Affairs Office at 553-5315 or stop by at 346 Woods Hall. The office is a department within the Division of Student Affairs.

Rech looks to rebound on recruits' strength

The UMSL women's volleyball team, after announcing the 1984 volleyball schedule, will attempt to rebound from a frustrating 1983 season with the strength of five returning letterwinners and two blue-chip recruits.

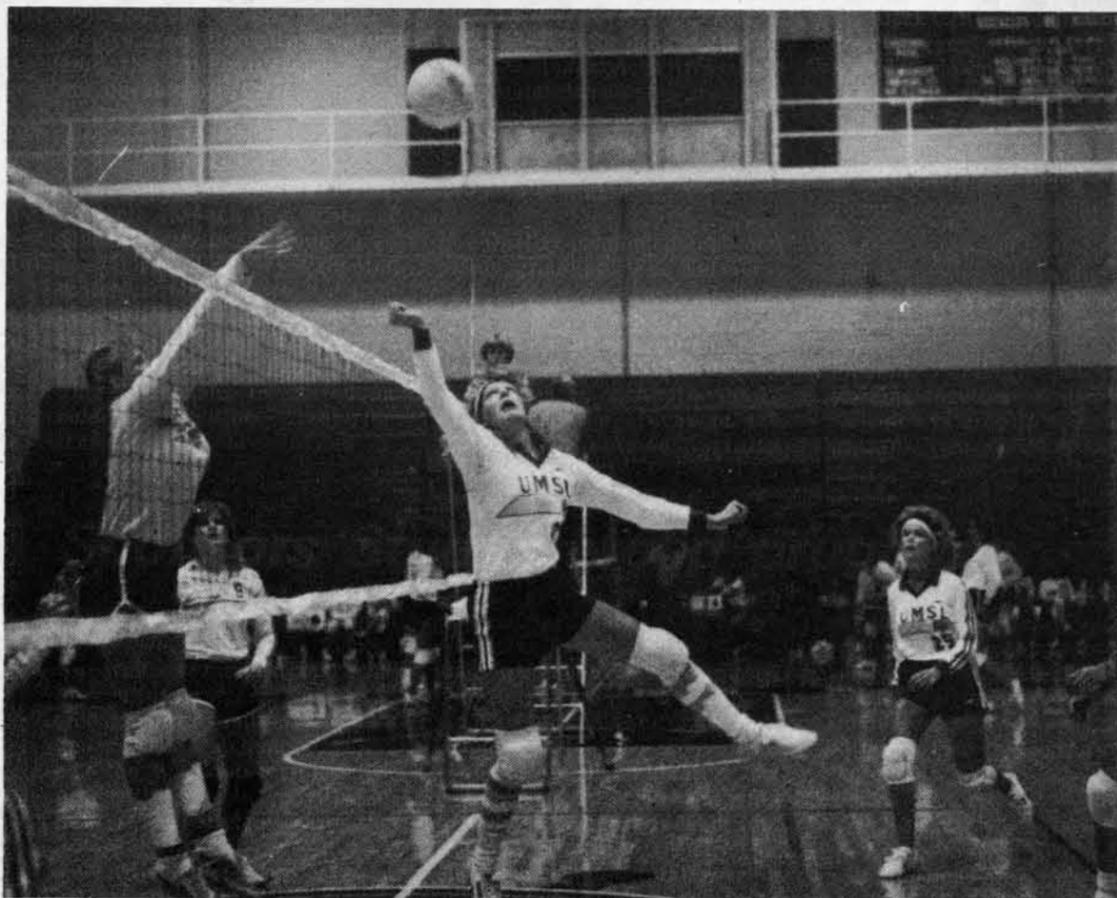

After a reputable 24-14 record in 1982, Coach Cindy Rech's club slipped to 12-36 after losing five starters from the '82 team. A tougher schedule also contributed to the poor Riverwomen season.

The five returners this season are Lisa Plamp, Robin Heuer, Beth Zinzer, Shery Versemann and Julie Crespi. Plamp, a 6-foot-1 star, was one of the outstanding hitters for UMSL last year and showed signs of reaching her expected potential. Crespi was solid both offensively and defensively in 1983.

Rech recruited two prized area netters in Chris Dehass and Sharon Morlock. Dehass, the MVP at Hazelwood East High last season, led her team to the 1982 Missouri State High School Championships. Morlock was named the Post-Dispatch Scholar-Athlete while playing for Hazelwood West High.

1984 Schedule

Sept. 12	Missouri Baptist College	Home
Sept. 12	Principia Tournament	Away

JUMP UP! The UMSL volleyball team will be jumping to best its opponents this fall with five returning letterwinners. The team begins its home season on Sept. 7 and 8 with a 6 p.m. tournament in the Mark Twain Gymnasium.

Rivermen & women kicking for NCAA tournament bids, again

The UMSL soccer Rivermen, awaiting the comforts of a newly constructed soccer stadium, have announced their schedule for the 1984 season. Beginning Sept. 1 against Missouri Southern State University, Coach Don Dallas' kickers will play 15 regular-season games while hosting the Budweiser Classic tournament Oct. 5 and 6.

Returning from last season's 13-6 club are 13 lettermen, including starting goalkeeper

Greg McPetridge, who registered six consecutive shutouts and held a 0.33 goals against average, second-leading scorer Tom Olwig (eight goals), and third-leading scorer Steve Hoover (seven goals).

The Rivermen reached the quarterfinals of the National Collegiate Athletic Association Division 2 playoffs last year before falling to Seattle Pacific University, 5-2. Lost from that team are All-Midwest selections Lance Polette, John Pallett and John O'Mara, among others. Polette led UMSL with 11 goals.

After what Dallas termed "an excellent recruiting year," he is cautious but optimistic of his chances this season. The Rivermen are hoping to qualify for the NCAA Division 2 tournament for the 13th consecutive season.

The UMSL soccer Riverwomen, who also advanced to the NCAA Tournament last year before falling to George Mason University in the first round, also have announced their 1984 schedule.
