Receiving Reports of Discrimination Allegations

The University requires all employees of the University to report any information relative to sex discrimination that is brought to his or her attention. The mandated reporting includes notification to the Title IX Coordinator of any situation that may have been shared, personally witnessed, or a conversation that may have been overheard. The reporter is required to provide all information, regardless of any request to restrict the sharing of the information. Employees with a legal obligation or privilege of confidentiality are not required to share information regarding sex discrimination with the Title IX and Equity Office when the information is obtained in the course of confidential communication. The following units are considered confidential resources and are exempt from the mandatory reporting requirement.

UMSL Health Services, UMSL Counseling Services, the UMSL Victim Advocate, UMSL Center for Trauma Recovery, UMSL Community Psychological Services and the Employee Assistance Program (EAP). Additionally, the University has established Memorandums of Understanding (MOU) with the YWCA and Safe Connections, who are considered confidential resources and assist with crisis intervention and victim advocacy.

When information is provided, the Title IX & Equity Office can provide applicable resources to the parties involved. There are several available options to report allegations of sex discrimination which include email, telephonic, in person or online at: <https://www.umsl.edu/title-ix>. The Title IX and Equity Office received 113 reports of discrimination, with 67 being sex discrimination. The table below provides a breakdown of the reports received:

Alleged Violation	Number of Reports
Sex Discrimination	67
Racial Discrimination	28
Disability Discrimination	04
National Origin Discrimination	03
Religion Based Discrimination	02
Sexual Orientation Discrimination	04
Age Discrimination	03
Other (Non-Discrimination)	02
Total	113

While sex discrimination allegations are required to be reported, other forms of discrimination were not required to be reported during this reporting year. It should be noted, however, that there has been an increase in reports of other forms of discrimination received from students and employees.

The following table illustrates examples of sex discrimination reports received by the Title IX & Equity Office during the reporting period.

There were 67 reports of sexual discrimination reports received by the Title IX and Equity Office between August 1, 2019 and July 31, 2020.

Sexual Harassment: 22
Sexual Assault: 10
Feeling Uncomfortable: 10
Other/Unspecified: 10
Dating/Intimate Partner Violence: 8
Stalking: 7

The number of reports received (67) decreased from the prior reporting year by 26. The decrease in the number of reports may be attributed to the remote learning environment that went into effect in March 2020, due to the Covid-19 pandemic.

Title IX & Equity Reports by Month

It is interesting to note that the primary reporting occurs in the beginning for the academic fall semester. Traditionally, the second spike in reporting has been at the conclusion of the spring semester in May, but that didn't occur this time. The numbers provided in the chart above reflect all reports of discrimination that were received in the Title IX & Equity Office.

Title IX Resolution Status

As a matter of office procedure, complainants, who are affiliated with the campus community (students and/or employees) are provided with campus resource information in the initial outreach. In recognizing the importance in treating respondents, who are affiliated with the campus community as an employee or student, in a fair and equitable manner, resource information is also shared with the accused party. We must keep in mind that the initial report received are not proven facts, but allegations only. We are cognizant that respondents are entitled to campus resources, regardless of perceived responsibility of the reporting party.

There is a significant number of complainants who do not respond to the outreach attempts of the investigator. Our standard practice includes 2 to 3 contact attempts with the complainant. If the complainant does not respond to any of our attempts, the file is closed or placed in an inactive status. The complainant is made aware of this decision, but also advised that we are available should they choose to contact us at a later date. There are situations where the complainant will respond to the outreach efforts of our office, but does not want an investigation to be conducted. A significant number of complainants only request that our office discuss the inappropriate behavior with the respondent, in order to educate him or her, which we consider an informal resolution.

Resolution

This reporting year saw a significant increase in the number of equity related reports. There number of reports received from students and employees is the highest number of reports received since the office has maintained tracking. We attribute the rise to several factors to include the current climate of the nation, which served as a catalyst to speak out against inequities witnessed or experienced. Additional avenues for reporting, which includes the Hotline Reporting, provided anonymity for those reporting.

Campus Community Efforts

In efforts to continue Title IX awareness, we strive to implement programming and training to educate the campus community. Several (7) sessions to address Title IX requirements for our campus were conducted during faculty orientation. Training is also conducted with student staff of the Millennium Student Center, Teaching Assistants, Graduate Assistants, and Residence Assistants. Additional Title IX training sessions are conducted with incoming Optometry students, Chemistry student (workers), as well as specific training with students of the Succeed Program. Members of the Equity Resolution Hearing Panel and Appellate Officers are required to attend annual training to be an active participant.

In collaboration with other departments, the Title IX and Equity Office participates in bringing campus aware during Domestic Violence Awareness Month in October and Sexual Assault Awareness in April. The Tritons Sex Education and Empowerment Graduate Assistant and Outreach Coordinator host classes designed to increase skills and confidence in relationship communication, as well as awareness of gender-based norms that support rape culture.

The University of Missouri St. Louis was recently awarded a grant from the Office of Violence Against Women (OVW). With guidance from the OVW, the Title IX and Equity Office, in collaboration with Student Affairs, the Office of Diversity, Equity & Inclusion, UMSL PD and external community members have developed a strategic plan to address violence in educating the campus community and strengthening services to victims of domestic/dating violence, sexual assault and stalking. These programming efforts contribute to the goal of bringing awareness in addressing sexual assault prevention.
